AIR QUALITY MANAGEMENT

RESTROOM SOLUTIONS

CREATE A POSITIVE FIRST— AND LASTING—IMPRESSION OF YOUR FACILITIES

Consider this: The human brain can process roughly 10,000 different smells in an area the size of the postage stamp. Because the human sense of smell is often linked to memory, many high-traffic public-facing businesses make it a priority to combat malodor and create a better air care environment throughout their facilities. Restrooms are no exception.

There's no easy way to put it – a shared restroom can be a foul-smelling room. This is where an air purifier excels. No matter the cause, and especially if you have a busy restroom, an air purifier is an excellent solution to ensure your small or large restroom remains in a constant state of freshness.

Whether it's aerosol sprays, strong-smelling cleaning products such as bleach, bacteria on fixtures, human-caused odors, or other common airborne pollutants, the air in your restroom must be healthy and clean — especially for those with compromised immune systems. Restrooms are a haven for germs and bacteria. What's more, 64% of Americans will think twice about patronizing an establishment after an unpleasant restroom experience.

ARE YOU CLEANING EVERYTHING?

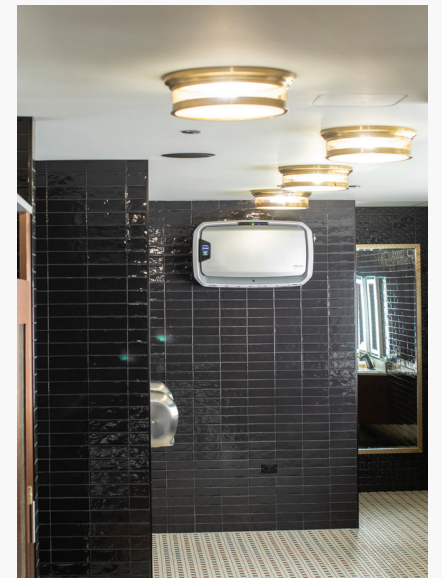

Beyond visible cleaning, today's restroom users expect the air to feel clean, fresh, and well-maintained.

Research shows that indoor air quality plays a powerful role in how cleanliness—and the organization behind it—is judged.

What the data tells us:

- 66% of people believe restrooms are a direct reflection of an organization
- 62% of Americans deliberately choose businesses with clean, well-maintained restrooms
- 60% of those customers willingly spend more money at those locations
- 90% of Americans believe employers that deep clean restrooms care more about employee health and wellness

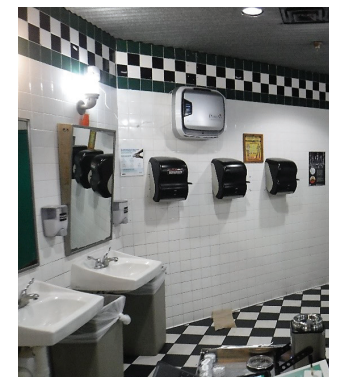

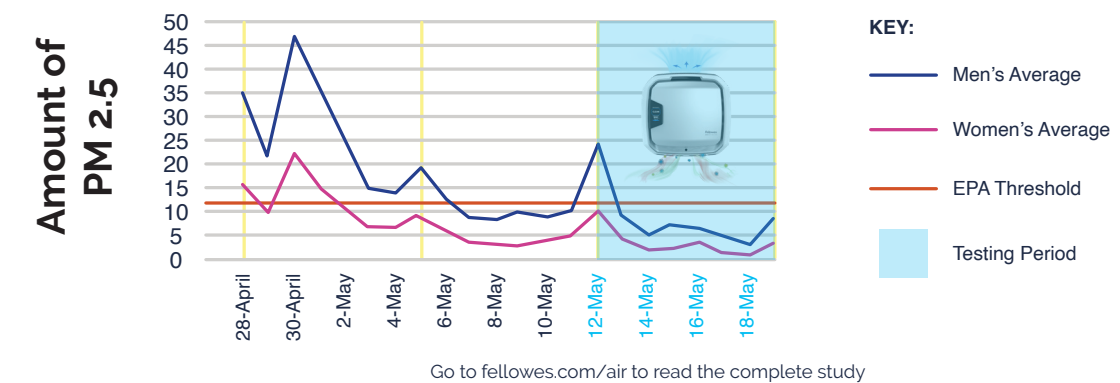

Odors and poor air quality can quickly undermine even the cleanest space. If a restroom doesn't smell clean, guests assume it isn't—making air quality essential to satisfaction, confidence, and brand perception.

A REAL WORLD CASE STUDY WITH AERAMAX® PRO

Real Results, Real Air: How Fellowes Reduced PM2.5 at Quaker Steak & Lube

During this study an observable reduction of PM2.5 in the Men's and Women's restrooms was made when the Fellowes Air Purification AM3 PC devices were operational.

Only Fellowes® AeraMax® Pro Air Purifiers sense & react to changes in air quality and occupancy while showing you the air is clean. Utilizing True HEPA filtration eliminates the spread of viruses, but also eliminates odors.

Patented sensors and a real-time display make invisible air quality visible, delivering peace of mind that students and staff are breathing cleaner air.

Patented EnviroSmart Technology continuously senses your environment and automatically adjusts to purify the air, save energy, and reduce operating costs.

Fellowes makes a variety of free-standing and wall-mounted commercial grade air purifiers, designed to fit virtually any size restroom.
